Why gender in climate change matters?

Gender inequality in climate change:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=paeptDI4znA>

Speakers: Activists of the Natural Resources Defence Council (NRDF)

Production: NRDF

Duration: 2,24 min

Description: Women have every reason to want to solve climate change; they're suffering most of the consequences. A healthy environment is a basic right for all of us—regardless of where we live, how we vote, or what we look like.

Gender inequality in climate change, with focus on agriculture:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=iPigdDzBDOE>

Production: TEDx Regina

Duration: 18 minutes

Description: Speaker Amber Fletcher helps us clearly see social inequality during the world's climate events. Climate is also a powerful backdrop to see the often under-valued importance of farm women.

Why gender in climate change matters?

Call for Gender Action:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hP0TZQWQkx0>

Production: UN Climate Change

Duration: 1,32 min

Description: Women play a critical role in tackling climate change, and there is a need for more female voices at the table to ramp up gender action.

Gender Analysis and NDCs: Short Guidance for Government Stakeholders:

<https://www.ndcs.undp.org/content/ndc-support-programme/en/home/impact-and-learning/library/gender-analysis-and-ndcs--short-guidance-for-government-stakeholders.html>

Author: Una Murray.

Issued by: UNDP NDC Support Programme, 2019

Description: For NDCs, the results of a gender analysis should provide concrete, action-oriented recommendations for governance, planning and policy. The analysis can bring together information from different sectors that will help determine if there is a more systematic approach to introduce or implement gender-responsive climate change policy. It should also provide recommendations within the broader focus of the NDC coordination drawing on national gender equality commitments. This short guidance for government stakeholders on conducting a gender analysis for NDCs explains how the analysis should provide recommendations on gender-responsive policy alignment, institutional coordination, capacity building, sex-disaggregated data collection, and finance into the priority NDC sectors.
